

ROBERT M. LaFOLLETTE IS DEAD

WISCONSIN SENATOR PASSED AWAY NEAR NOON IN WASHINGTON

Lapsed Into Unconsciousness Half Hour Before He Died; Tried Vainly to Give Last Message to His Family

Gradual Weakening of His Heart, Induced by Bronchial Asthma, Hastened the End; Was 70 Years Old

(By United Press)

Washington, June 18.—Senator La Follette is dead. "Fighting Bob," for 20 years U. S. senator from Wisconsin, staunch defender of what he believed to be the popular will, died at his home here at 1:21 p. m. today.

Gradual weakening of his heart, induced by bronchial asthma, hastened the end. He was 70 years old a few days ago.

Confined to his home by the cold he had contracted, and weakened by continual illness during the past two years, his family had been forewarned by attending physicians that at his age and the progress the disease had attained that recovery was a matter of doubt.

La Follette lapsed into unconsciousness a half hour before his death. He tried to rouse himself. He essayed to say something to his family, trying vainly to give them a message or to ask something. His efforts were fruitless and he was too weak to utter a word.

That the senator knew death was upon him at least two weeks ago was disclosed by one of his family today.

Small children were playing noisily under his window as he lay in bed with the cold that ultimately brought his death.

"Life is a wonderful thing. I'd like to begin it all over again, but I think I've earned a long needed vacation," he said.

Starting life in a log cabin on a Wisconsin farm and fighting his way through most state offices there to the senate of the United States, he had climaxed his career when he entered the presidential campaign last year and polled 5,000,000 votes against President Coolidge and John W. Davis, democrat nominee.

Instigator of the sensational Teapot Dome investigation, La Follette took up the cudgels to fight what he believed to be corruption in government. Despite his age, he stumped the country to the rim of the middle west. He did not live to see the legal outcome of the sensational oil battle.

His strenuous efforts brought him but 13 electoral votes from his own state and the day after election found him weak in health.

Politics next stripped him of all the honors of his long political service. First, he was ousted from the republican party of the senate by a vote of his party caucus. Then he was shorn of his seniority honors, dropped as chairman of the manufacturers' committee, his clerks were taken from him, he was forced to give up his preferred offices in the senate office building and take an office like a newly elected senator. He came back to take his place fighting in the ranks just as he had fought for 40 years. It was almost like the war—when he was the lone man of the senate—ostracized and denounced because of his opposition to the United States entry into the war.

La Follette went to Palm Beach last winter and came back this spring tanned and feeling much better, although it was apparent that he had not fully recovered. The strenuousness of his career dug deep lines into his face which only the final rest could erase.

During the two years of congress closed last March, La Follette wielded the dominating influence upon important legislation. With his little group of followers in the house and senate he held the balance of power between republicans and democrats. Which ever of the two parties he aligned his force with was assured of a majority.

It was the La Follette group which combined with the democrats to write the present tax law against the desires of the present administration. With the last congressional election, however, his hold was weakened and his possibility of controlling the new congress which meets in December was negligible.

LAST HOURS OF SEN. LA FOLLETTE

Washington, June 18 (noon).—Senator Robert Marion LaFollette, picturesque leader in the progressive political movement, is dying.

A tired heart, weakened from the desperate fight—first with the threat of pneumonia and then bronchial asthma—is slowly giving away. The end can be only a few hours deferred, according to those at his bedside.

Recent bulletins from the LaFollette household at half hour intervals told today of the hopeless fight the aged statesman is waging. Apparently given an outside chance to recover, virtually all hope was abandoned this morning after the senator had spent a restless night. Then the ominous symptoms of heart failure became manifest.

The circulation of blood through his frail frame gradually began to fail. The heart that had carried him through a hundred political battles was nearing the end of its task.

Two physicians, Dr. C. C. Marbury and D. M. Rambo, sought to make him as comfortable as possible, but their statement that the senator's condition was "grave" told that little was left for medicine to do.

Mrs. LaFollette, Robert LaFollette Jr., Phillip LaFollette of Wisconsin and the LaFollette's daughter hovered near the sick bed conscious that the end was near.

At 11:50 LaFollette was still sinking. A bulletin issued said there was nothing to be added to the statement put out at 11 a. m., describing the failure of his circulation.

Dr. Thomas A. Lee, a heart specialist, was called in.

Washington, June 18.—At 10 a. m. today Senator LaFollette showed decided signs of heart failure and his physician said he was decidedly worse. Fears for his life were expressed.

SYMBOL TO MANY OF PROGRESSIVE SPIRIT

Robert Marion LaFollette of Wisconsin was a symbol to many hundreds of thousands of people of all that was liberal and progressive in American political life.

More than any contribution or definite achievement, his aggressive leadership of American liberals and the tradition which gradually grew up about him served to make him the political idol of a large section of the voters of the Middle West.

He attained the political power for which he strove so long, only late in his career, and then it served

According to E. N. Williams, traffic expert of the Commercial Club, Northwest lines have already filed petitions with the Minnesota warehouse commission requesting approval of a new scale granting increases between Minnesota points.

(By United Press) St. Cloud, June 18.—The First National Bank here failed to open its doors for business this morning.

The reason for this closing could not be learned early this forenoon. It was understood, however, that a federal bank examiner is here and has been in conference with the board of directors.

NO REPORT MADE ON CAUSE OF CLOSING

Minneapolis, June 18.—The federal bank examiner's office here this morning had no report on the cause of the closing of the First National Bank at St. Cloud. It was said at the office that a report would probably be received later in the day from an examiner who is now at St. Cloud.

OLD HOME OF 'EMPIRE BUILDER' UNDER THE HAMMER

(By United Press) St. Paul, June 18.—Grounds and buildings on the estate of the late James J. Hill, the "empire builder," will go under the hammer soon due to a court decision late yesterday on a petition brought by Ruth Hill Beard and her husband, McCook Beard, New York.

The estate, valued in the petition at $189,000, will probably bring but a small fraction of that estimate unless one of the nine children decide to purchase it. The house is perhaps the largest single home in the city. The property has a frontage of 350 feet on Summit avenue, St. Paul's fashionable residence street.

The chair companies are one of three groups of furniture makers indicted by the federal grand jury for alleged conspiracy to keep up furniture prices and stifle competition.

Fines totaled $166,000. Roger Shale, special federal prosecutor, said that the firms were fined the varying amounts from $1,000 to $5,000 according to the relative amount of business done by the companies and according to their financial standing.

The case against William H. McCoy, employed by Greenwood association, was nolprossed. It was learned that the association had dispensed with his services two years ago.

EUROPE FORCING A WET NORWAY, IT IS REPORTED

MUST BUY LIQUORS TO KEEP HER TRADE IN FISH AND LUMBER

REFERENDUM IS TO BE HELD THIS YEAR ON PROHIBITION

(By United Press) Oslo, Norway, June 18.—Before the end of 1925 Norway will have a referendum on prohibition. Premier Mowinckel has pledged the Liberal party to that effect. The exact date, however, has not yet been decided.

In the meantime Norway wishes that certain countries in Europe would quit kicking her dawg around. "France and Spain especially, Norway has a very mild, apologetic form of Prohibition, but even that poor thing suffers from the violent assaults of great big European countries which have wine and spirits to sell.

All Norway has been trying to do, according to spokesmen for the government, is to prohibit the importation of powerful spirits containing more than 17 per cent of alcohol.

Anything under 17 per cent can come flying through the Customs without opposition. It can be bought and sold freely enough. But anything over 17 per cent Norway would like to keep out.

Swedish punch, which connoisseurs say is the most powerful knock-out that Europe knows, comes flowing across the frontier and through the innumerable fjords and there aren't enough conscientious teetotalers among the soldiers and the coast guard to keep the stuff out.

French cognac (brandy) is landed freely at innumerable coves along Norway's three thousand miles of coast. Even port, which is the wine of Portugal "fortified" with brandy to make it travel, is rolled into the country in huge tuns and pipes and casks and quarter-casks. Sherry, which is a light white wine of Spain, "fortified" again and again with the pure distilled spirit of its own grape, comes rolling in.

Some Scotch whiskey comes in—smuggled in principally by Hamburg smugglers. But in general Scotch whiskey is not a problem as these other spirits are. Nevertheless, Norway shuddered with one unanimous shudder two months ago when in the British House of Commons a red-cheeked representative of the British distillery interests demanded to know why Norway should not be compelled if she wished to sell her goods to

It is expected that the surplus will be taken care of with the completion of the new wing to the institution. There are 200 more inmates ranging from 16 to 30 years confined now than two years ago, a survey shows.

DEATH TOLL ON LACKAWANNA 45

A NUMBER OF OTHER VICTIMS IN CRITICAL SHAPE MAY DIE

(By United Press) Hackettstown, N. J., June 18.—The death toll of the Lackawanna train wreck Tuesday at Rockport, near here, stood at 45.

Twelve of the 24 injured passengers still in hospitals are reported in a critical condition and fatalities may yet reach 50.

Meanwhile, six separate investigations of the tragedy are under way. Bodies of many of the victims will be taken to Chicago today on a special train.

Britain, to admit into her shores a certain amount of Scotch whiskey.

Which discloses the secret canker at the heart of Norwegian "prohibition."

In order to sell her dried fish and her timber to France and Spain, Norway is compelled by those countries to permit the importation of spirit which they produce.

For example, France compels Norway to purchase one-half million litres of cognac or brandy each year. Norway buys it and stores it. She doesn't sell a drop of it to her people because it contains more than 17 per cent of alcohol. But she buys it and stores it. She has done that now for two years! Which means that she has one million litres of brandy which she doesn't want.

Both Spain and Portugal compel her to buy a certain amount of port and of sherry, most of which is stored. And two months ago, as remarked, it looked for a moment or two as though England would follow suit and compel her to buy—and store—an indefinite amount of Scotch whiskey. Fortunately, the British government squelched the bright idea of the Scotch distillers and Norway breathes easy again.

But these are the complications which make Norway wonder "whether Prohibition pays."

Straight, downright Prohibition is one thing, but this pathetic, mishapen thing is something else again. The proposed referendum will decide whether Norway should stick out, in this more or less futile fashion, against her powerful neighbors and customers or, casting her lot with "wet Europe," postpone to a later day her attempts to go "dry."

Party Returned Safely From Their Polar Flight, Said Message

Word Received From King's Bay and Related to United Press

By North American Newspaper Alliance and United Press.

New York, June 18.—Word received from King's Bay is that the explorer Roald Amundsen and all his party returned safely from their polar flight. The message was signed by Amundsen and the members of his party.

In two specially built airplanes, Roald Amundsen and his companion on this most daring of attempts to explore the region around the North Pole flew from King's Bay, Spitzbergen, four weeks ago this afternoon. The plan was to return within 36 hours. Amundsen hoped to land at or near the Pole, spend six hours making observations and return to the base where his staunch little ships, the Farm and Hobby, were waiting.

While the world waited for word from the north, days and finally weeks passed without any message from Amundsen. Scientists throughout the world gave their opinions as to the probable safety of the expedition, some believing them safe, others maintaining the explorers must be lost.

Close friends and relatives of the members of the expedition in this country refused to give up hope. Mr. and Mrs. Burton Prentiss, brother-in-law and sister of Lincoln Ellsworth, the American with Amundsen, maintaining that the fliers were safe.

Ellsworth was born in Chicago, attended Columbia and later Montreal universities. He had flying experience in France during the world war and explored in the Yukon; hence was qualified to act as co-leader of the expedition with Amundsen.

A Young Man and His Credit

A YOUNG man with heart set resolutely upon making a success must needs look well to his credit.

While building his credit he is building his good name. And without a good name he is cast out from the society of honorable, upstanding men.

Good credit rests upon a foundation of character. It requires staunch purpose, in the young, to resist the temptations which weaken and destroy the human structure where ought to reside a courageous soul.

When Junior cuts loose from parental support, and begins the enjoyment of his pay check, he exults in his ability to command long cherished objects.

He comes to agree with the adage "the apparel oft preclaims the man," and with some degree of good judgment drapes himself with becoming taste—if at considerable outlay.

As a comer in the business world, especially if well connected, he finds encouragement from the merchant in the "charge it" practice. And, unless he goes carefully, he soon finds the unpaid bills piled up. He is in over his head.

Merchants have a way of exchanging credit information; so when a young man gets beyond his depth there is a less sympathetic attitude around town toward his desire to exchange his I.O.U. for good merchandise.

Even his banker may manifest some irritability if his tendencies play such havoc with his bank balance that the account persists below the bank's profit line; especially if the financial stress he is under leads him to the unfortunate mistake, when hard pressed, of over-drawing his account.

Every young man who wants to lay a foundation of character and credit on which to build a career should take to heart the following maxims:

Never charge a dollar anywhere unless you know you can pay it within thirty days.

To procure goods when you are not certain you can pay for them promptly is reprehensible.

Never incur new debts when already worried with those you cannot pay.

A charge account is a good thing, when you win confidence by meeting your obligations promptly.

Credit is an indispensable asset in business life.

The young man should establish his credit and guard it with scrupulous care.

"PINE SHORES" HAS BEEN PLATTED

Staring Company of Minneapolis
Takes Over Whiteley Homestead
Property for Such Purpose

DESCRIPTION OF THE SITE

Beautifully Wooded, Has Trout
Stream, Has Frontage of Over
5 Miles on Rice Lake

The Staring company of Minneapolis has taken over the Whiteley homestead property, northeast of Brainerd, and christened it "Pine Shores."

This is one of the few extremely wild and undeveloped tracts of property accessible from good highways from all directions and still as wild as any property that can be found in Northern Minnesota.

This property is situated at almost the very center of Northern Minnesota's highways. The distance from Brainerd to Minneapolis, Duluth and Fargo, is almost identical. The distance being about 130 miles in either direction. Furthermore, within another year State Highway No. 27 will be completed, furnishing a paved road from almost the southern state line of Minnesota to the property. There is no other similar property in the state so situated.

One of the very good features of this property is that no public highway now passes through any portion of it and it can only be reached by a private right of way. This is true of the entire tract.

Another of the very attractive features is the more than five and one half miles of water front on Rice Lake, and on what is now known as Whiteley Lake, the one to the extreme east. The entire shore frontage of Whiteley lake belongs to this estate, as well as part of the Rice lake frontage, and there is in addition about one mile of Mississippi river frontage.

The property is beautifully wooded, being covered with pine, birch and silver poplar, as well as other types of trees. It is also noted for its beautiful flowers and foliage.

Other particularly attractive features of this property are the trout stream entering from the east side, and the permanent water level because of the high dam.

Another feature of this property is the unevenness of the lake shore frontage, which is filled with bays and points projecting into the lakes making the whole a most interesting and attractive spot for one seeking an exclusive summer home.

The character of the property suggests the name "Pine Shores" which has so been designated by the Staring Company who are in control of the project and operating under the personal direction of Frank A. Whiteley, patent attorney in Minneapolis, and the son of R. K. Whiteley, the original owner of the land.

R. K. Whiteley came to Brainerd some forty-seven years ago and settled on what later became the family homestead property, about three miles northeast of the city. Later other members of the family acquired additional property until at the present time the entire estate contains about four hundred and fifty acres.

Frank A. Whiteley has devoted considerable time in the preparation of the property and acquiring of certain adjoining pieces in order to fill out and make available the entire tract. He is now building a cabin for himself on one of the points. In addition to this, there are two other cabins and the two used by the lodge.

The Staring company has built a small lodge operating it only for the use of prospects who may be interested in the purchase of this property. Through its building department it is in a position to build cabins for prospects on any of these sites.

One of the features of this property will be the building of a road to the top of one of the highest points in this section, where views may be had for twenty to sixty miles in any direction. A site is also being reserved for a club house and golf course, these to be developed as the occasion demands.

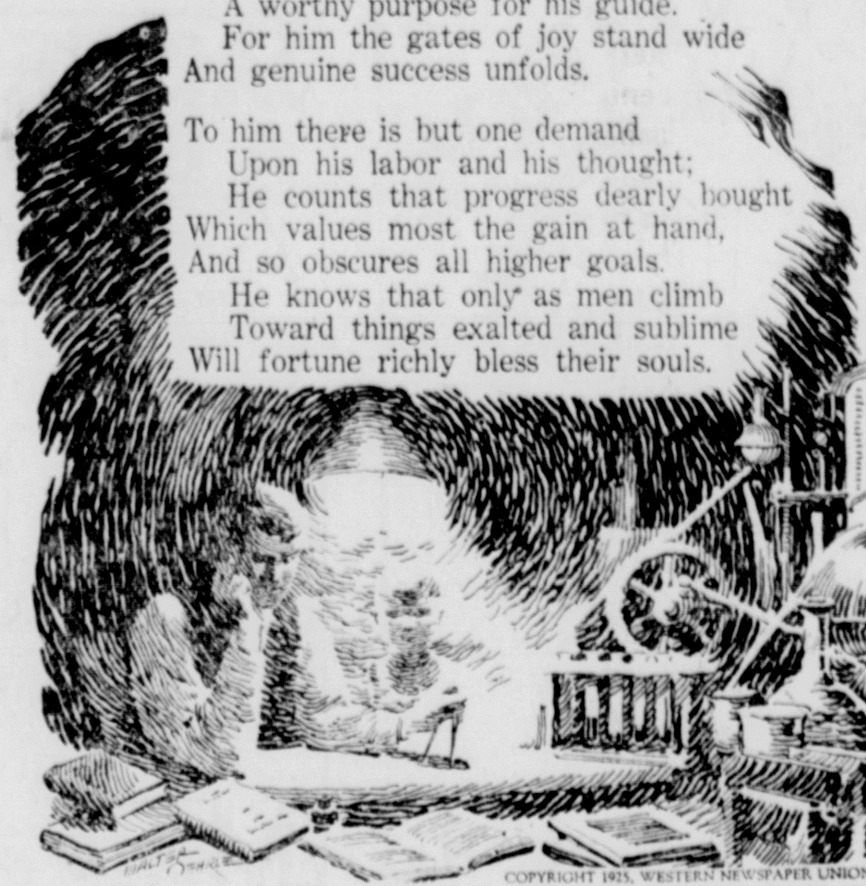

It will be remembered that some years ago considerable interest was turned to this section with reference to iron ore. While it is not known positively that there is ore on this particular property, the estate has so much confidence in the possibility that it has created a reserve of one-half of the mineral rights that may be acquired by any purchaser.

For the people of Brainerd there is an opportunity here to obtain summer cabin sites with adequate shore frontage and at the same time acquire a much larger tract than is usually offered with this type of property. It is the purpose of the Staring company to make this a high grade cabin site property and divide it into a larger type of lake shore lots than often occurs. Inasmuch as the property is so divided and properly restricted it will appeal to any one seeking a high grade summer location.

Good sites may be had as low as $1,000, with others ranging as high as $3500.

This property has been under development for some two years and a portion of it is now being placed on the market by The Staring Company, realtors of Minneapolis. Stanley S. Staring, the president of the firm, has been in active real estate business for over thirty-two years, and his firm now occupies its own exclusive building at 116 South Sixth street, with more than forty associates in the business. The others active in control are Hugh M. Craig, Lewis N. Kenyon, Vice-President, A. B. Zielke, Secretary-Treasurer. The business of this firm has grown and developed until it now has its several departments under department managers.

"PINE SHORES" HAS BEEN PLATTED

Staring Company of Minneapolis
Takes Over Whiteley Homestead
Property for Such Purpose

DESCRIPTION OF THE SITE

Beautifully Wooded, Has Trout
Stream, Has Frontage of Over
5 Miles on Rice Lake

The Staring company of Minneapolis has taken over the Whiteley homestead property, northeast of Brainerd, and christened it "Pine Shores."

This is one of the few extremely wild and undeveloped tracts of property accessible from good highways from all directions and still as wild as any property that can be found in Northern Minnesota.

This property is situated at almost the very center of Northern Minnesota's highways. The distance from Brainerd to Minneapolis, Duluth and Fargo, is almost identical. The distance being about 130 miles in either direction. Furthermore, within another year State Highway No. 27 will be completed, furnishing a paved road from almost the southern state line of Minnesota to the property. There is no other similar property in the state so situated.

One of the very good features of this property is that no public highway now passes through any portion of it and it can only be reached by a private right of way. This is true of the entire tract.

Another of the very attractive features is the more than five and one half miles of water front on Rice Lake, and on what is now known as Whiteley Lake, the one to the extreme east. The entire shore frontage of Whiteley lake belongs to this estate, as well as part of the Rice lake frontage, and there is in addition about one mile of Mississippi river frontage.

The property is beautifully wooded, being covered with pine, birch and silver poplar, as well as other types of trees. It is also noted for its beautiful flowers and foliage.

Other particularly attractive features of this property are the trout stream entering from the east side, and the permanent water level because of the high dam.

Another feature of this property is the unevenness of the lake shore frontage, which is filled with bays and points projecting into the lakes making the whole a most interesting and attractive spot for one seeking an exclusive summer home.

The character of the property suggests the name "Pine Shores" which has so been designated by the Staring Company who are in control of the project and operating under the personal direction of Frank A. Whiteley, patent attorney in Minneapolis, and the son of R. K. Whiteley, the original owner of the land.

R. K. Whiteley came to Brainerd some forty-seven years ago and settled on what later became the family homestead property, about three miles northeast of the city. NEW FOREST LAWS

NEW forest laws as codified at the recent session of the legislature become effective July 1. Every farmer, land owner, logger and citizen of the state should be interested, as the strict observance of these laws will mean less fire hazard to the residents and property holders of the forested area of the state and it is also a big step in the conservation and protection of our forests.

Section 18, as quoted by E. H. Rhodes, District Ranger of the Forestry service, requires that before any person shall cut or cause to be cut any timber upon any land in the state, a notice giving name of parties and description of land to be cut must be posted in camp buildings or on northwest corner of area to be cut and a written report of proposed cutting to be mailed by registered letter to the State Forester, St. Paul, Minn., Old Capitol Building.

Another provision requires "any township board or contractor to make a written report by registered letter to the Forester of location of such right-of-way to be cut."

Another requires "all slash and debris caused by cutting of timber to be piled in separate compact piles on 200 foot strip along all roads, trails, railroads, lakes or adjoining timber."

Section 21 provides that under burning permit law "furrows plowed in peat lands are not deemed a sufficient fire break."

"Occupant or owner of land on which an unauthorized fire is burning must promptly report fires to the District Ranger. Failure to do so is negligence and makes said parties responsible for fire."

Section 27 designates the size of mesh of screen to be used on steam traction, stationary or donkey engines, which when properly installed shall constitute an effective spark arrester.

Other forest laws remain practically the same as heretofore.

MILK AS A FOOD

MILK as a food is growing in popularity. It is taking the place of meat and eggs and its food value shows it to be highly nutritious. As Lieutenant Governor Nolan said at the American Legion Frolic at Breezy Point, milk was one of the first subjects he became acquainted with. The only mistake made by many of us is that we lose our speaking acquaintance with milk in more mature years and take after strange gods in the shape of too heavy and massy foods.

Milk, to be of highest value, must be produced in clean, sanitary surroundings and handled and bottled according to state regulations. Buy more milk. Also be sure that what you buy is clean and healthful.

PEONY SHOWS

PEONY shows attract interest in St. Paul as well as Brainerd. All people, as a rule, love flowers. And who do you suppose won a high prize at the St. Paul show, a regular flower grower or an amateur?

Premier awards in the fifth annual peony shows of the First National bank were won by Charles W. Bunn, vice president and former general counsel of the Northern Pacific railway company.

Thousands of persons were attracted to the bank by the remarkable exhibition of 20,000 blooms.

Brainerd's show of June 19 and 20 is of course not on the large scale as St. Paul, but it will display fine varieties and the prize list offered is a most comprehensive one.

OUR LAKE LEVELS

WITH the moisture of May and June at hand, the carping critics of other days have ceased to worry about our lake levels. Water in Hartley lake, for instance, is a foot higher than ever before in its history, says Mike Marea, who recently came home from Minneapolis.

Gull lake and Round lake show good stages of water. Big Pelican lake is rising. As Walter M. Murphy, highway engineer, said, "high and low water levels at our lakes move in cycles." We have probably seen the last of our seven lean years of lowering lake levels and have reached the turn of the tide and will now see them built up again.

THE MacMILLAN EXPEDITION

THE difference between the MacMillan and Amundsen expeditions is readily observed in America. The MacMillan venture is no wild dash into the unknown. Every contingency has been most carefully weighed and provisions made to cover same. Nothing is left to chance. No wild dashes will be made. Bases will be established. If there are plane flights, two planes are held in reserve to cover the tracks of the first one out.

Amundsen's dash was a reckless one and for success it hinged on good weather conditions, plus all possible "breaks" in its favor. We do not know what provisions Amundsen made to cover forced landing in the ice pack, nor if he landed safely in the ice, how he could force his plane to rise from such a mass.

THE native sons of California, strenuous boosters for their so-called sunshine climate, were well "kidded" by the Shriners on a rainy day. The Nobles wore their bathing suits and fezzes and paraded the streets, singing, "Where's Your Sunshine, California?"

WHEN Ford makes up his mind, he acts quickly. He told Congress his stand on Muscle Shoals. He told the St. Paul and Minneapolis bridge commission to build a bridge or quit and action followed immediately. The bridge will be built.

ST. CLOUD Rotary club will have its first ladies night Friday evening at the Breen hotel. Regional Governor Eddie Flynn of St. Paul will make his last official visit as district Rotarian head.

HAMLIN university has banned dancing. This of course will discontinue dances at the university, but we fail to see where it will have any effect on the world at large.

No wonder bridges washed out in parts of southern Minnesota. Faribault reports 12 inches of rain for 16 days in June.

SENATOR ROBERT M. LA FOLLETTE IS DEAD

rather as a destructive force, for he was forced by his policies to play a game of blockade and counter-blockade. In the Sixty-eighth Congress, with the aid of the little band of "radicals," centering about him, he was able to hold the balance of power because of the close alignment between democrats and republicans.

Yet all his life was a fierce battle for liberal legislation, which was in no small degree successful.

Naturally, the course marked out by LaFollette was bitterly resented by all conservatives, and he was both feared and denounced by both republicans and democrats, who preferred the old order. He was attacked as a socialist, even as a communist, both in public and private by the classes he himself assailed. The world will be compelled to await the verdict of history on his career.

From the first day when, as a stout, stocky boy of 9, he stood up bravely before the school board of the little town of Primrose, Wis., and told them that he "knew his sister could make a good school teacher," and that she deserved the place, his career has been a long fight, sometimes bitter, more often joyous in the sheer love of the fray.

His First Speech

He had driven to town, eleven miles, from their little prairie settlement, with this sister. The members of the school board looked her up and down gravely and shook wise old heads and stroked long, gray beards. She was too young and pretty to make a good school teacher, they decided. That was the beginning of "Bobby's" political career. In a speech which would have done him proud in his later years he convinced the school board that his sister was the one teacher to fill the vacancy.

From his mother, who was of Scotch-Irish descent, he inherited the ever-present twinkle in his eye and his hearty laugh, and from his father, a descendant of those vigorous French-Huguenots, who left France to escape religious persecution, he acquired that tenacious and bulldog determination which has carried him through many a tussle where weaker men would have fallen.

Had the fates conspired to give LaFollette the proper kind of background for success in Middle Western politics, they could not have dealt more kindly. Born on Flag Day, 1855, in a log cabin, "Bobby" was brought up in the strength and vigor of pioneer traditions and pioneer life. Self-educated, he won his way to honors and graduated from the University of Wisconsin in 1879. He was admitted to the bar a year later and the same year was elected district attorney of Dane county, after his initial fight against machine politics.

From that day onward every moment of his existence was spent in public life. Not once thereafter was he out of sight of some portion of the public eye.

Wife Real Helper

One of the greatest factors in the long fight which he has waged against monopoly control and the so-called interests has been the woman he married while yet in the University, Belle Case, of Baraboo, Wis. Not once has she hesitated during the course of his long career when he contemplated a step which would bring down merciless and scathing publicity.

"Go ahead, Bob!" she would always reply when, as he always did, he asked her advice in regard to some political move. For, besides raising a family of four, Robert M. Jr., Fola, Phillip and Mary, she has always played an active part in his political life, going with him on many long campaigns, often taking the stump at his side.

From 1880 until 1884 he was district attorney and they talk yet in Madison of this young firebrand who, by the sheer fire of his oratory, won case after case. The next step was Congress, and after a fierce battle, which marked the beginning of the end of "machine" politics in Wisconsin, he was elected to Congress in 1885 and served until 1891. Although he was unknown and looked upon with suspicion as a "radical," and given a place on an unimportant committee, he made an enviable record during these two terms, preventing a big lumber deal on the Indian reservations and playing a prominent part in the framing and passage of the McKinley bill.

LaFollette, upon his return from Congress, swept out with the rest of the party in the democratic landslide of 1890, turned the eye of a zealous gladiator upon the railroads of his native state. It took him six years to break down completely the control of the "machine" and elect himself to the governorship. Then it was another two years before he succeeded in gaining a legislature in sympathy with progressive legislation.

But under LaFollette's leadership taxes were equalized; the railroads were compelled to pay in more than $700,000 more each year; a state-wide primary election law was secured, which put an end to convention-hall purchasing of votes; the railroad commission was organized, and railway rates were appreciably lowered, and Wisconsin became known throughout the union as the most progressive and forward-looking of states.

NEW FOREST LAWS

New forest laws as codified at the recent session of the legislature become effective July 1. Every farmer, land owner, logger and citizen of the state should be interested, as the strict observance of these laws will mean less fire hazard to the residents and property holders of the forested area of the state and it is also a big step in the conservation and protection of our forests.

Section 18, as quoted by E. H. Rhodes, District Ranger of the Forestry service, requires that before any person shall cut or cause to be cut any timber upon any land in the state, a notice giving name of parties and description of land to be cut must be posted in camp buildings or on northwest corner of area to be cut and a written report of proposed cutting to be mailed by registered letter to the State Forester, St. Paul, Minn., Old Capitol Building.

Another provision requires "any township board or contractor to make a written report by registered letter to the Forester of location of such right-of-way to be cut."

Another requires "all slash and debris caused by cutting of timber to be piled in separate compact piles on 200 foot strip along all roads, trails, railroads, lakes or adjoining timber."

Section 21 provides that under burning permit law "furrows plowed in peat lands are not deemed a sufficient fire break."

"Occupant or owner of land on which an unauthorized fire is burning must promptly report fires to the District Ranger. Failure to do so is negligence and makes said parties responsible for fire."

Section 27 designates the size of mesh of screen to be used on steam traction, stationary or donkey engines, which when properly installed shall constitute an effective spark arrester.

Other forest laws remain practically the same as heretofore.

Mayor Arthur Nelson is Principal Speaker at Brainerd Lions Club

OUTING AT BREEZY POINT

Says Every Courtesy Should be Extended to Our Summer Visitors

"You have a wonderful summer playground in the Brainerd district, but you aren't half taking advantage of it," Mayor Arthur Nelson of St. Paul told the Brainerd Lions club at its annual outing at Breezy Point Wednesday evening.

"People who have traveled extensively are unanimous in the opinion that the state of the 10,000 lakes offers summer recreational facilities second to none," continued the speaker. "But they are at a loss to understand why Minnesota does not capitalize this great resource to a greater extent than she does."

"We who live in the lake districts have not yet come to anywhere near a full realization of the commercial value of our summer playground. We live among its lakes, can see them every day in the year, and have become so accustomed to them that we forget that they would make a strong appeal to hundreds of thousands of people not so fortunately situated."

"And so our beautiful resources of pines and lakes for many years were allowed to waste their commercial value, and summer tourists went elsewhere to playgrounds that cannot offer half what Minnesota's vacation region does, little dreaming of the pleasures they were missing."

"But for the past several years the Ten Thousand Lakes of Minnesota Association, realizing the value of this great resource that was being wasted, began a systematic campaign of publicity to acquaint the world with what we have to offer, and the response has been even greater than could have been anticipated."

"But the people of Minnesota must assist the Ten Thousand Lakes association in this great work. We must all boost our state at every opportunity, talk its wonderful playgrounds on any and every occasion. That is what other states are doing with their inferior resources."

"And last but not least we must back up our boosting, by treating our summer visitors in the very best way we know how. We should extend every courtesy to them, make it a point to see that they enjoy their stay here to the fullest extent, that nothing is allowed to mar their vacation. They will reciprocate not only by coming again, but by inducing others to come also, and in this way a wonderful constructive publicity campaign has been launched the results of which cannot even be estimated."

"If you do not as yet appreciate the value of your lake region, it will pay you to take a trip to some other state that is capitalizing on less than Minnesota offers, and you will come home ready to agree with all that I have said; ready to start your part of the publicity campaign. I know that I am not exaggerating when I say that the surface has not even been scratched in an effort to capitalize our summer playground resources," concluded Mayor Nelson, who made a strong plea that organizations as well as individuals work together in telling the world about the state of the ten thousand lakes.

The outing at Breezy Point was the culmination of the annual attendance campaign staged by the local Lions club. The membership is divided into two teams, and the team with the best attendance record for eight weeks, the duration of the campaign, is the guest of the losing team at the outing.

Mrs. W. H. Fawcett, on behalf of Breezy Point lodge, welcomed the club with the assurance that the beautiful summer resort was for the evening at the disposal of the rovers. An excellent steak dinner was served which was followed by the regular business meeting and program of the club.

"But the people of Minnesota must assist the Ten Thousand Lakes association in this great work. We must all boost our state at every opportunity, talk its wonderful playgrounds on any and every occasion. That is what other states are doing with their inferior resources."

"And last but not least we must back up our boosting, by treating our summer visitors in the very best way we know how. We should extend every courtesy to them, make it a point to see that they enjoy their stay here to the fullest extent, that nothing is allowed to mar their vacation. They will reciprocate not only by coming again, but by inducing others to come also, and in this way a wonderful constructive publicity campaign has been launched the results of which cannot even be estimated."

"If you do not as yet appreciate the value of your lake region, it will pay you to take a trip to some other state that is capitalizing on less than Minnesota offers, and you will come home ready to agree with all that I have said; ready to start your part of the publicity campaign. I know that I am not exaggerating when I say that the surface has not even been scratched in an effort to capitalize our summer playground resources," concluded Mayor Nelson, who made a strong plea that organizations as well as individuals work together in telling the world about the state of the ten thousand lakes.

The outing at Breezy Point was the culmination of the annual attendance campaign staged by the local Lions club. The membership is divided into two teams, and the team with the best attendance record for eight weeks, the duration of the campaign, is the guest of the losing team at the outing.

Mrs. W. H. Fawcett, on behalf of Breezy Point lodge, welcomed the club with the assurance that the beautiful summer resort was for the evening at the disposal of the rovers. An excellent steak dinner was served which was followed by the regular business meeting and program of the club.

AN IMPORTANT CHANGE IN POLICY

STUDEBAKER herewith announces the discontinuance of the custom of presenting a new line of automobiles each year. Instead of bringing Studebaker Cars dramatically up-to-date once in twelve months, we shall keep them up-to-date all of the time—with every improvement and refinement made available by our great engineering and manufacturing resources. This policy not only directly benefits present Studebaker owners, but it also enables purchasers of new cars to obtain models that are always modern—without the necessity of waiting for annual changes, and without the danger of their new cars becoming obsolete.

BACK of this new policy is an amazing story—of interest to everyone who owns or expects to own an automobile.

The dramatic success of the present line of Studebaker Cars is one reason for this important change. Month after month we keep breaking records—sales keep piling up. This year we will sell almost four times as many automobiles as we produced in the big boom year which followed the war.

Owners report endurance records, even beyond our greatest expectations. Out in the rugged mountain regions where Studebaker sells four times its normal proportion of cars, owners talk about these models in the most extravagant terms. In 1924 the Corporation's sale of repair parts dropped to $10 per car per year. Mechanical stamina under severe usage—remarkable performance under the most difficult travel conditions—these are the qualities for which Studebaker Cars have long been noted.

Surely, these significant facts prove beyond any shadow of doubt that Studebaker Cars are so soundly engineered and manufactured and so eminently satisfactory in the hands of owners, that drastic annual changes are not required.

Improvements and refinements will be made from time to time. New features will be added. When our engineering department (maintained at a cost of more than half a million dollars a year) devises an improvement in any model, it will be made without regard to the calendar.

As in the past, we shall continue to pioneer vital betterments that have proved their merit through practical use. Alert, aggressive, receptive to new ideas, resourceful in executing them, guided by scientific research and spurred by imagination, the Studebaker organization proposes to build better motor cars than ever before.

Now you may buy a Studebaker on any day of the year with the confident assurance that the sturdy, thrifty, one-profit car you drive away will not be stigmatized by any act of ours as a "last year's model." Today, in even more generous measure than in the past, Studebaker Cars offer the utmost value for the money.

AT HAMLINE EXERCISES

Mrs. A. H. Hillard Attended Graduation Exercises, Daughter Theodora Graduating

Mrs. A. H. Hillard, former Brainerd resident now living in Virginia, Minn., is visiting friends in the city. She is just returning from St. Paul, where she attended the commencement exercises of Hamline university, her daughter, Miss Theodora Hillard, being a member of the graduating class.

Miss Hillard, it will be remembered, graduated from the Brainerd high school as valedictorian of her class, and for this high honor was awarded a scholarship at Hamline university.

She continued her excellent work there, graduating this spring with honors, being third highest in her class of over sixty. This will entitle her to a scholarship in some higher institution of learning if she so desires.

Brainerd boasts two young ladies who reflect credit upon the city by the honors they have attained in their graduating classes this year. In addition to Miss Hillard's record at Hamline university, Miss Ida Mample, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Mample, and a graduate of the local high school won a fellowship at Columbia university through her scholastic attainments in Macalester college.

IMPROVING THE GULL LAKE ROAD

6 Miles on Brainerd End to be Given Surface Dressing of Calcium Chloride

DRAWS MOISTURE FROM AIR

Will Thus Permit Maintenance Work in the Dryest Weather

Of interest to all motorists traveling Trunk Highway No. 19, better known locally as the "Gull Lake road" is the announcement from the office of A. W. Moulster, state highway maintenance engineer, that six miles at the Brainerd end of this road is to be materially improved.

Beginning this Thursday morning a crew of men will give the first two miles out of Brainerd on Trunk Highway No. 2 west, and the last six miles of Trunk Highway No. 19 a surface dressing of calcium chloride for the purpose of improving the surface and to better maintain the highway.

One of the principal difficulties that has been experienced in trying to maintain the surface of the highways through sandy country which dries out quickly, is that the maintenance work cannot be carried on during dry weather.

Calcium chloride has the quality of drawing moisture from the air, and when placed on the roads, will keep the surface moist, thus permitting maintenance work to be done even in dry weather.

Two carloads, 50 tons, of calcium chloride, have arrived in Brainerd and will be applied on the roads with a lime spreader, about six tons being used to the mile. A second application of 25 tons, or half as much as the first dressing, will be applied in sixty days, says Mr. Moulster. The calcium chloride comes in crystal form. About three days will be required to complete the work.

This method of improving the roads is not a new one, but has been thoroughly tested out by the state highway department and found to be a decided success wherever it has been used.

Tourists as well as local motorists will appreciate the improvement on Trunk Highway No. 19, which is one of the heaviest traveled roads out of Brainerd.

2 GOLD WATCHES LOST BY FARMERS

Sneak Thieves Robbed Henry Bouck And His Father in Long Lake

WATCHES HUNG IN KITCHEN

Valuables Missing When They Returned From Short Visit With Relative

Henry Bouck and his father would like to know who entered their home on Tuesday evening and helped themselves to the two gold watches, which were left hanging in the kitchen.

Mr. Bouck's wife is away, and his sister invited the two men, who are keeping bachelor's hall to have supper at her house. They accepted the invitation with such alacrity that they left their watches hanging on nails on opposite sides of the kitchen.

When they returned home a little more than an hour later, the timepieces were gone. At first it was thought that some neighbor had called and had played a practical joke on the men, but this theory has been exploded, and the Boucks believe now that someone entered their home and appropriated the watches.

PRIZE PEONY ROOTS OFFERED

Coming Peony Show of Garden Flower Society Has an Outstanding List of Such Offerings

KEEN COMPETITION

Seldom That Any Flower Show Has Offered Such a High Grade Variety of Peony Roots

The coming peony show of the Garden Flower society, June 19 and 20, has an outstanding list of prize peony roots which have been contributed by Lee R. Bonnewitz of Ohio, A. K. Wilkus of St. Paul and the Brand Peony Farms of Faribault. Undoubtedly there will be keen competition in winning these prizes, since it is seldom that any show has been able to offer such high grade varieties of peony roots as are to be given as prizes to the winning exhibitors at the 1925 show.

Mr. Bonnewitz is contributing roots of the following varieties: Salange, Jubilee, Le Cygne, Walter Faxon, Martha Bullock, Mrs. Edward Harding, Elwood Pleas. The purchase price of these roots totals more than one hundred dollars. The varieties Le Cygne and Mrs. Edward Harding rate as nearly perfect peonies. A perfect peony has not been produced, but if there should be a perfect one, its score would read 10 points.

The two mentioned varieties Le Cygne and Mrs. Edward Harding are rated nine and nine-tenths, the highest rating thus far given to any peony. The Mrs. Edward Harding sells as high as $40 and $50 for a single peony root. The Le Cygne and Martha Bullock are listed at $20 each. Mr. Bonnewitz, being a personal friend of H. F. Michael, is the explanation of this very unusual and splendid contribution of prizes.

A. K. Wilkus of Riverview Gardens, St. Paul, was one of the donors of the 1924 peony show. He is again contributing peony roots which cannot be purchased for less than $50.

It is indeed unusual for so young an organization as the Garden Flower society to have such generous friends as the Brainerd Rotary club, A. K. Wilkus and Lee R. Bonnewitz.

The judges for the show are to be A. K. Wilkus, President of the Northwestern Peony and Iris society, Mrs. H. B. Fillotson, Minneapolis, and one local individual to assist them.

It is hoped the flower show held at

AT HAMLINE EXERCISES

Mrs. A. H. Hillard Attended Graduation Exercises, Daughter Theodora Graduating

Mrs. A. H. Hillard, former Brainerd resident now living in Virginia, Minn., is visiting friends in the city. She is just returning from St. Paul, where she attended the commencement exercises of Hamline university, her daughter, Miss Theodora Hillard being a member of the graduating class.

Miss Hillard, it will be remembered, graduated from the Brainerd high school as valedictorian of her class, and for this high honor was awarded a scholarship at Hamline university.

She continued her excellent work there, graduating this spring with honors, being third highest in her class of over sixty. This will entitle her to a scholarship in some higher institution of learning if she so desires.

Brainerd boasts two young ladies who reflect credit upon the city by the honors they have attained in their graduating classes this year. In addition to Miss Hillard's record at Hamline university, Miss Ida Mample, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Mample, and a graduate of the local high school won a fellowship at Columbia university through her scholastic attainments in Macalester college.

IMPROVING THE GULL LAKE ROAD

6 Miles on Brainerd End to be Given Surface Dressing of Calcium Chloride

DRAWS MOISTURE FROM AIR

Will Thus Permit Maintenance Work in the Dryest Weather

Of interest to all motorists traveling Trunk Highway No. 19, better known locally as the "Gull Lake road" is the announcement from the office of A. W. Moulster, state highway maintenance engineer, that six miles at the Brainerd end of this road is to be materially improved.

Beginning this Thursday morning a crew of men will give the first two miles out of Brainerd on Trunk Highway No. 2 west, and the next six miles of Trunk Highway No. 19 a surface dressing of calcium chloride for the purpose of improving the surface and to better maintain the highway.

One of the principal difficulties that has been experienced in trying to maintain the surface of the highways through sandy country which dries out quickly, is that the maintenance work cannot be carried on during dry weather.

Calcium chloride has the quality of drawing moisture from the air, and when placed on the roads, will keep the surface moist, thus permitting maintenance work to be done even in dry weather.

Two carloads, 50 tons, of calcium chloride, have arrived in Brainerd and will be applied on the roads with a lime spreader, about six tons being used to the mile. A second application of 25 tons, or half as much as the first dressing, will be applied in sixty days, says Mr. Moulster. The calcium chloride comes in crystal form. About three days will be required to complete the work.

This method of improving the roads is not a new one, but has been thoroughly tested out by the state highway department and found to be a decided success wherever it has been used.

Tourists as well as local motorists will appreciate the improvement on Trunk Highway No. 19, which is one of the heaviest traveled roads out of Brainerd.

2 GOLD WATCHES LOST BY FARMERS

Sneak Thieves Robbed Henry Bouck And His Father in Long Lake

WATCHES HUNG IN KITCHEN

Valuables Missing When They Returned From Short Visit With Relative

Henry Bouck and his father would like to know who entered their home on Tuesday evening and helped themselves to the two gold watches, which were left hanging in the kitchen.

Mr. Bouck's wife is away, and his sister invited the two men, who are keeping bachelor's hall to have supper at her house. They accepted the invitation with such alacrity that they left their watches hanging on nails on opposite sides of the kitchen.

When they returned home a little more than an hour later, the timepieces were gone. At first it was thought that some neighbor had called and had played a practical joke on the men, but this theory has been exploded, and the Boucks believe now that someone entered their home and appropriated the watches.

PRIZE PEONY ROOTS OFFERED

Coming Peony Show of Garden Flower Society Has an Outstanding List of Such Offerings

KEEN COMPETITION

Seldom That Any Flower Show Has Offered Such a High Grade Variety of Peony Roots

The coming peony show of the Garden Flower society, June 19 and 20, has an outstanding list of prize peony roots which have been contributed by Lee R. Bonnewitz of Ohio, A. K. Wilkus of St. Paul and the Brand Peony Farms of Faribault. Undoubtedly there will be keen competition in winning these prizes, since it is seldom that any show has been able to offer such high grade varieties of peony roots as are to be given as prizes to the winning exhibitors at the 1925 show.

Mr. Bonnewitz is contributing roots of the following varieties: Salange, Jubilee, Le Cygne, Walter Faxon, Martha Bullock, Mrs. Edward Harding, Elwood! Please. The purchase price of these roots totals more than one hundred dollars. The varieties Le Cygne and Mrs. Edward Harding rate as nearly perfect peonies. A perfect peony has not been produced, but if there should be a perfect one, its score would read 10 points.

The two mentioned varieties Le Cygne and Mrs. Edward Harding are rated nine and nine-tenths, the highest rating thus far given to any peony. The Mrs. Edward Harding sells as high as $40 and $50 for a single peony root. The Le Cygne and Martha Bullock are listed at $20 each. Mr. Bonnewitz, being a personal friend of H. F. Michael, is the explanation of this very unusual and splendid contribution of prizes.

A. K. Wilkus of Riverview Gardens, St. Paul, was one of the donors of the 1924 peony show. He is again contributing peony roots which cannot be purchased for less than $50.

It is indeed unusual for so young an organization as the Garden Flower society to have such generous friends as the Brainerd Rotary club, A. K. Wilkus and Lee R. Bonnewitz. The judges for the show are to be A. K. Wilkus, President of the Northwestern Peony and Iris society, Mrs. H. B. Filliston, Minneapolis, and one local individual to assist them.

It is hoped the flower show held at

SHIFT IN TWILIGHT LEAGUE IN THE CITY

YALE FAVORED TO BEAT HARVARD

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, June 18.—Great rowing crews have become almost an institution at Yale since Ed Leader was brought to New Haven from the University of Washington. Leader was a fine craftsman in college and he was brought up under a great teacher whose system he has improved with his own ideas. He is a great coach and he has the qualities of leadership that Yale seems to be demanding of those in charge of her athletics.

The Yale crew of 1924, which won the Olympic championship for the United States in Paris, was regarded as one of the finest boats that was ever developed in this country. It was comparable only to that great Navy crew which won two inter-collegiate championships and the Olympic race at Brussels in 1920.

Another fine Yale crew, rated almost as good as last year's eight, goes on the Thames River at New London tomorrow afternoon against Harvard in their annual race. Yale is a heavy favorite to win the race and Harvard's scant hope is that the Crimson eight is better than the one which was overwhelmed last year.

Harvard has a big game crew and it looked better in its preparatory races than the Harvard crews of the last three years, but it did not look good enough to be rated for more than an outside chance. There are always chances for an upset that could be brought about by the breaks or racing luck, but it would have to be a tremendous reversal for the Yale crew to finish second.

The Yale-Harvard race is always a great spectacle and under fair weather conditions it is perhaps the most colorful event of the entire sport calendar in this country. Rowing is a sport particularly dear to the heart of wealthy alumni and the Yale-Harvard race is almost an annual convention of all the aristocracy in the East and from scattered points all over the country.

The Harvard and Yale crews are not entered in the intercollegiate rowing championship which is to be staged Monday on the Hudson River at Poughkeepsie. Even if the dates were not so close together it is not likely that Harvard would care to enter the varsity crew and all efforts made in recent years to interest Yale have failed. Yale and Harvard are concerned only in winning their own race and they care little about the intercollegiate championship. Yale is content to let the experts figure what would happen if the Yale crew raced the winner of the Poughkeepsie regatta.

though he hesitated long before taking that step. He felt that there was much work still to be done in Wisconsin, but believed the Senate offered him an opportunity to serve a greater number of people. Senate leaders also sought to repress the militant young Westerner. He was given unimportant places on committee, but despite this he unearthed an enormous coal and oil "deal" and gave the old line leaders no rest.

Many times during his long service in the Senate he underwent feats of actual physical endurance which would have intimidated a six-day bicycle rider. He staged filibusters which amazed his opponents and on one occasion he held the floor of the house for almost three days, cutting the federal appropriation by two billion dollars.

Three times during his political career his name went before the republican convention for president. In 1912 he received twenty-five votes and might have received the nomination had it not been for some skillful maneuvering by old line leaders.

It was during the World War that "Fighting Bob" met the supreme test, and his face became lined, his hair grey and his straight shoulders stooped. "The lone man of the Senate"—no one will ever know, LaFollette confessed in later years, what those agonizing months of ostracism, denunciation and vilification meant. Yet he stood by the principles for which he had fought so long, even during the fever of war.

He opposed the entrance of the United States into the war, but once this country was committed he backed every measure in Congress for the support of the soldier. It took courage, however, in the midst of the war, to advocate bills for conscription of wealth as well as conscription of men, but LaFollette did this and thereby gained the everlasting enmity of the wealthy class.

Reputed by U. of W.

Probably the greatest blow that the war dealt was the attack made upon him by his beloved state university, that he had regarded as a stronghold of liberal thought. A number of the professors passed a resolution condemning Senator LaFollette for his war stand and he was burned in effigy by the student body.

But in 1923 the state legislature passed a resolution condemning the men who had censured LaFollette and in the elections of the previous year he had amassed the greatest majority ever given a public official for such a position. Those who deserted "Fighting Bob" during the war came back beneath the LaFollette banners.

No man in American life ever had greater opportunities to further his private fortunes, but LaFollette owned very little aside from the old homestead, a few miles from Madison, and there is a mortgage on this which he was never able to raise during his lifetime. In fact, he was scarcely able to keep the buildings in repair and one of the finest evidences of the affection which Wisconsin people had for him were the annual gatherings at the LaFollette farm, when people by the thousands from all over the state congregated at the farm to set things to right, shingling, repairing and even rebuilding the farm home and barns.

Fight for Reforms

During the course of his long career Senator LaFollette led the fight for the following measures:

- 1—For the direct primary and the direct election of United States senators.
- 2—For workmen's compensation, general employers' liability, safety appliance acts.
- 3—For regulation and higher taxation of railroads in Wisconsin, government valuation of railroads and railroad rate classification.
- 4—For regulation of telephone and telegraph rates.
- 5—For publicity of campaign expenditures.
- 6—Eight-hour law for government and state employees and fixed railroad hours of service.
- 7—For parcel post.
- 8—For federal inheritance act.
- 9—For protection of women workers; of mothers and children; laws against child labor; for federal children's bureau.
- 10—Redefinition of trusts; exemption of co-operative farmer and labor organizations from anti-trust law.

WORKMEN NOW TIE FOR FIRST PLACE IN LEAGUE

TAKE EXTRA INNING CONTEST FROM ELKS, 7 TO 6

HOWARD LANDS IN HALL OF FAME, HITTING HOME RUN

The Workmen baseball team advanced to a tie for first place in the league standings by taking an extra inning contest from the Elks last night, 7-6. Up to the time the Workmen went to bat in their half of the fourth inning, the score was 6-0 in favor of the Elks. In the fourth the A. O. U. W. made three, one more in the fifth, a pair in the sixth and took the contest by scoring a run in the first extra period.

Howard, playing his first game of the year for the Workmen, nominated himself for a place in the Hall of Fame by collecting a home run, triple and single in four trips. Gas-kill for the Elks made three singles in five tries.

The playing of the outfielders was a pleasant thing to look at. Especially did the center fielders on both teams shine. McAlpine accepted four chances without a muff. But to Ziebell of the Elks goes the glory of the contest. He played perfectly, taking five difficult chances, and on one of them he brought down the house by his catch. The ball was hit to right field, bounced into McGarry's glove and out again over his head, and Ziebell coming to back him up took the ball out of the air for the catch.

Tonight the B. P. O. E. and the B. A. C. play, and tomorrow night the Y. M. C. A. and the A. O. U. W. play. This will finish up all the games that have been left over from the fore part of the schedule.

7—Importance of the Putt.

So far as the score is concerned, putting is the most important stroke in golf. It comes very near being as important as all the rest put together. Par on different courses averages about 72. In computing the par strokes at 72, putting is allowed just half, 36. For the average player, and many are coming to believe for all players, the overspin putt is the one to use. Properly made, this putt makes the ball roll straight over toward the hole, hugging the turf all the way. The convincing argument in favor of it is that it is the simplest possible way of getting the ball into the hole. Walter Hagen, Bobby Jones, Cyril Walker, Chick Evans, Bobby Cruikshank, Jesse Guelford, Al Espinosa, Bob Gardner, George Duncan, Harrison "Jim" Johnston, Billy Mehlihorn and nearly every golf star uses the overspin putt.

There will be other articles descriptive of the best ways of making the overspin putt, but emphasis must be put on the fact that all methods must provide for the club face going back at exactly right angles to the line of putt and going through the ball and finishing at right angles. If the club does not finish at right angles, it is a sign that the club was turning when the ball was hit, giving the ball side-spin that is certain to make it roll off the line just before it stops. On a level surface, the ball with overspin only will keep on rolling straight ahead until it stops. Allowing for undulations of the green, the overspin ball stays on the line all the time. If there is a roll-off on a properly hit ball with overspin only, the ball itself is off center and should be abandoned for accurate play.

Get out your putter at home or anywhere and see how nearly you can come to swinging it straight back and straight forward over a straight line in the rug or floor. SHIFT IN TWILIGHT LEAGUE IN THE CITY

YALE FAVORED TO BEAT HARVARD

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, June 18.—Great rowing crews have become almost an institution at Yale since Ed Leader was brought to New Haven from the University of Washington. Leader was a fine oarsman in college and he was brought up under a great teacher whose system he has improved with his own ideas. He is a great coach and he has the qualities of leadership that Yale seems to be demanding of those in charge of her athletics.

The Yale crew of 1924, which won the Olympic championship for the United States in Paris, was regarded as one of the finest boats that was ever developed in this country. It was comparable only to that great Navy crew which won two inter-collegiate championships and the Olympic race at Brussels in 1920.

Another fine Yale crew, rated almost as good as last year's eight, goes on the Thames River at New London tomorrow afternoon against Harvard in their annual race. Yale is a heavy favorite to win the race and Harvard's scant hope is that the Crimson eight is better than the one which was overwhelmed last year.

Harvard has a big game crew and it looked better in its preparatory races than the Harvard crews of the last three years, but it did not look good enough to be rated for more than an outside chance. There are always chances for an upset that could be brought about by the breaks or racing luck, but it would have to be a tremendous reversal for the Yale crew to finish second.

The Yale-Harvard race is always a great spectacle and under fair weather conditions it is perhaps the most colorful event of the entire sport calendar in this country. Rowing is a sport particularly dear to the heart of wealthy alumni and the Yale-Harvard race is almost an annual convention of all the aristocracy in the East and from scattered points all over the country.

The Harvard and Yale crews are not entered in the intercollegiate rowing championship which is to be staged Monday on the Hudson River at Poughkeepsie. Even if the dates were not so close together it is not likely that Harvard would care to enter the varsity crew and all efforts made in recent years to interest Yale have failed. Yale and Harvard are concerned only in winning their own race and they care little about the intercollegiate championship. Yale is content to let the experts figure what would happen if the Yale crew raced the winner of the Poughkeepsie regatta.

though he hesitated long before taking that step. He felt that there was much work still to be done in Wisconsin, but believed the Senate offered him an opportunity to serve a greater number of people. Senate leaders also sought to repress the militant young Westerner. He was given unimportant places on committees, but despite this he unearthed an enormous coal and oil "deal" and gave the old line leaders no rest.

Many times during his long service in the Senate he underwent feats of actual physical endurance which would have intimidated a six-day bicycle rider. He staged filibusters which amazed his opponents and on one occasion he held the floor of the house for almost three days, cutting the federal appropriation by two billion dollars.

Three times during his political career his name went before the republican convention for president. In 1912 he received twenty-five votes and might have received the nomination had it not been for some skillful maneuvering by old line leaders.

It was during the World War that "Fighting Bob" met the supreme test, and his face became lined, his hair grey and his straight shoulders stooped. "The lone man of the Senate"—no one will ever know, LaFollette confessed in later years, what those agonizing months of ostracism, denunciation and vilification meant. Yet he stood by the principles for which he had fought so long, even during the fever of war.

He opposed the entrance of the United States into the war, but once this country was committed he backed every measure in Congress for the support of the soldier. It took courage, however, in the midst of the war, to advocate bills for conscription of wealth as well as conscription of men, but LaFollette did this and thereby gained the everlasting enmity of the wealthy class.

Repudiated by U. of W.

Probably the greatest blow that the war dealt was the attack made upon him by his beloved state university, that he had regarded as a stronghold of liberal thought. A number of the professors passed a resolution condemning Senator LaFollette for his war stand and he was burned in effigy by the student body.

But in 1923 the state legislature passed a resolution condemning the men who had censured LaFollette and in the elections of the previous year he had amassed the greatest majority ever given a public official for such a position. Those who deserted "Fighting Bob" during the war came back beneath the LaFollette banners.

No man in American life ever had greater opportunities to further his private fortunes, but LaFollette owned very little aside from the old homestead, a few miles from Madison, and there is a mortgage on this which he was never able to raise during his lifetime. In fact, he was scarcely able to keep the buildings in repair and one of the finest evidences of the affection which Wisconsin people had for him were the annual gatherings at the LaFollette farm, when people by the thousands from all over the state congregated at the farm to set things to right, shingling, repairing and even rebuilding the farm home and barns.

Fight for Reforms

During the course of his long career Senator LaFollette led the fight for the following measures:

- 1—For the direct primary and the direct election of United States senators.
- 2—For workmen's compensation, general employers' liability, safety appliance acts.
- 3—For regulation and higher taxation of railroads in Wisconsin, government valuation of railroads and railroad rate classification.
- 4—For regulation of telephone and telegraph rates.
- 5—For publicity of campaign expenditures.
- 6—Eight-hour law for government and state employees and fixed railroad hours of service.
- 7—For parcel post.
- 8—For federal inheritance act.
- 9—For protection of women workers; of mothers and children; laws against child labor; for federal children's bureau.
- 10—Redefinition of trusts; exemption of co-operative farmer and labor organizations from anti-trust law.

Many Eye Defects

(By United Press)
New York, June 18.—Twenty-five million men and women out of the 42,000,000 gainfully employed in this country have eye defects, according to recent industrial surveys. These figures are based upon the working population alone and do not include the remaining 71,000,000, or the school children.

TIE FOR FIRST

PLACE IN LEAGUE

TAKE EXTRA INNING CONTEST FROM ELKS, 7 TO 6

HOWARD LANDS IN HALL OF FAME, HITTING HOME RUN

The Workmen baseball team advanced to a tie for first place in the league standings by taking an extra inning contest from the Elks last night, 7-6. Up to the time the Workmen went to bat in their half of the fourth inning, the score was 6-0 in favor of the Elks. In the fourth the A. O. U. W. made three, one more in the fifth, a pair in the sixth and took the contest by scoring a run in the first extra period.

Howard, playing his first game of the year for the Workmen, nominated himself for a place in the Hall of Fame by collecting a home run, triple and single in four trips. Gaskill for the Elks made three singles in five tries.

The playing of the outfielders was a pleasant thing to look at. Especially did the center fielders on both teams shine. McAlpine accepted four chances without a muff. But to Ziebell of the Elks goes the glory of the contest. He played perfectly, taking five difficult chances, and on one of them he brought down the house by his catch. The ball was hit to right field, bounced into McGarry's glove and out again over his head, and Ziebell coming to back him up took the ball out of the air for the catch.

Tonight the B. P. O. E. and the B. A. C. play, and tomorrow night the Y. M. C. A. and the A. O. U. W. play. This will finish up all the games that have been left over from the fore part of the schedule.

2-YEAR-OLD GIRL DROWNS IN TWO FEET OF WATER

(By United Press)
Minneapolis, June 18.—Mary Jane, 2-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Jordan drowned in two feet of water at Lake Minnetonka near here last night. The child had been playing near the water with neighborhood children when she fell in the lake.

Here's the Philosophy

"There aren't," says Themistocles Keyring, "but four things necessary for comfort: Plain food, clean clothes, a good bed and a warm room. After you've got those, why worry?"—Exchange.

7—Importance of the Putt.

So far as the score is concerned, putting is the most important stroke in golf. It comes very near being as important as all the rest put together. Par on different courses averages about 72. In computing the par strokes at 72, putting is allowed just half, 36.

For the average player, and many are coming to believe for all players, the overspin putt is the one to use. Properly made, this putt makes the ball roll straight over toward the hole, hugging the turf all the way. The convincing argument in favor of it is that it is the simplest possible way of getting the ball into the hole. Walter Hagen, Bobby Jones, Cyril Walker, Chick Evans, Bobby Cruikshank, Jesse Guifford, Al Espinosa, Bob Gardner, George Duncan, Harrison "Jim" Johnston, Billy Mehlin and nearly every golf star uses the overspin putt.

There will be other articles descriptive of the best ways of making the overspin putt, but emphasis must be put on the fact that all methods must provide for the club face going back at exactly right angles to the line of putt and going through the ball and finishing at right angles. If the club does not finish at right angles, it is a sign that the club was turning when the ball was hit, giving the ball side-spin that is certain to make it roll off the line just before it stops. On a level surface, the ball with overspin only will keep on rolling straight ahead until it stops. Allowing for undulations of the green, the overspin ball stays on the line all the time. If there is a roll-off on a properly hit ball with overspin only, the ball itself is off center and should be abandoned for accurate play.

Get out your putter at home or anywhere and see how nearly you can come to swinging it straight back and straight forward over a straight line in the rug or floor. Take your stance so your eyes will be exactly over the ball and use the wrists only. The forearms must move a trifle to let the club remain low on the back swing. Otherwise do not move a muscle. You may be able to work out methods that will be as good as those that will be suggested.
